

FLORENCE KENALEMANG

Founder and Teacher at Les Petits Angels Preschool

Florence is an IVLP alumna from Botswana who participated in the Volunteerism in the U.S.: Civic Leadership in Action program in March 2016. During the program, she met with BlueStar Recycling, the AmeriCorps State Office, and Girls Inc. of Metro Denver. The program also participated in a WorldDenver Volunteer Reception and an excursion to Rocky Mountain National Park.

“I am Florence Kenalemang in Botswana and I am still carrying those undying and wonderful memories from Colorado and the other beautiful States we visited. I have unending and exciting stories to share; stories that shall last for a lifetime because of the knowledge gained as I interacted with different organizations serving communities in Denver. Thank you for being part of my journey of life. Upon my return, I was fueled with great enthusiasm which motivated me to write my first ever book titled Six Steps Further. It is in this book that I poured my heart out as I touched every detail of my American/IVLP experience. I have found it fulfilling to live my life to make children happy by advocating for children's right to education. I am a teacher and I use this opportunity to create different clubs to empower the Girl Child in my school. I have also managed to source a donation for a library in my School. Denver has taught me to be bold and fearless and as I approach my 40th birthday. I wish to visit Denver once again.”
