

Jamie Landers is the Director of Enterprise Strategy for Lockheed Martin Space. As an aerospace engineer, entrepreneur and revolutionary leader she drives new top line growth through developing new markets, rapidly delivering new innovative solutions. She is passionate about space for the benefit of all humanity and hopes to help trailblaze a new era for future generations creating harmonious societies on and off Earth. She has a Bachelor of Science in Aerospace Engineering from Penn State University, attended the UCLA Creative Writing Program, and graduated from the Small Business Accelerator Program at Wharton University of Pennsylvania. Ms. Landers is a member of the Board of Directors of World Denver, the co-founder of Women and Allies in Space Domain Awareness (WASDA) and the founder of the One in Five Foundation. Previously, she owned and operated the nationally recognized Lucious Bakery food truck and was on the Food Network and Cooking Channel. She resides in Highlands Ranch, CO with her husband Tom, their rescue dogs Rocket and Lilly, and their cats Olly and Groot.

Patricia Barela Rivera is President/Owner of PBR Solutions, LLC, a Denver-based consulting firm. She previously spent 11 years as the longest standing Director of the Colorado District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration. Her professional leadership experience also includes Deputy Director, Dept. of Local Affairs (Governor's appointee) and Executive Director of the Governor's Citizen Advocacy and Outreach Office from 1989-1991. She has served on over 75 community and organizational boards/commissions in Colorado during the past 45 years. She attended the University of New Mexico and earned her degree in Business Administration. Patricia is serving her second term on the University of Northern Colorado's Board of Trustees and was reappointed by Governor Polis to serve through December 2024.